DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election of claims 1-11 in the reply filed on January 9, 2006 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over any one of the patents to Merkl et al ('628), Baird ('007) or Baumel ('401) when taken in view of Boerio et al ('992).

The patent to Merkl et al and each discloses an ultrasonic transducer that includes a damper component (silicone, 32) and a transducer (12). The transducer includes a surface (electrode) for coupling to the damper component.

Similarly, Baird discloses an ultrasonic transducer that includes a damper component (elastomeric material such as silicone rubber, 22) and a transducer (P1, P2). The transducer includes a surface (16) for coupling to the damper component.

Baumoel discloses an ultrasonic transducer that includes a damper component (elastomeric material such as silicone rubber, 34) and a transducer (30). The transducer includes a surface (electrode) for coupling to the damper component.

The difference between claims 1 and 5 and Merkyl et al, Baird or Baumel is the claims specify that the damper component includes "a plasma etched surface".

Boerio et al discloses that elastomers are subject to degradation. To improve the resistance of elastomers to degradation, Boerio et al teaches plasma etching the surfaces of the elastomers.

Therefore, in view of Boerio et al, it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify any one of the elastomeric damping components of Merkyl et al, Baird or Baumel by plasma etching the bonding surface of the elastomer so as to improve the resistance of the damping component to degradation. Claims 1 and 5 are so rejected.

Dependent claims 2-4 are further provided by the above noted prior art.

Allowable Subject Matter

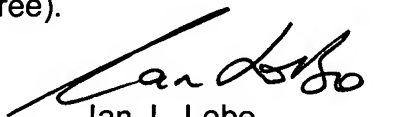

4. Claims 6-11 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Ian J. Lobo whose telephone number is (571) 272-6974. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday - Friday, 6:30 - 3:00.
